Diagnostic Link Connector Mapping Diagram

Diagnostic Link Connector (DLC) Mapping Diagram Explanation

The mapping diagram of DLC locations contains a divided instrument panel (IP) with numbered areas. Each numbered area represents specific sections of the IP where manufacturers may have located DLCs. This document briefly clarifies the numbered locations on the mapping diagram. We will use this mapping diagram to catalog manufacturer responses to the recent 208 letter requesting OBD DLC locations for 96MY and future vehicles. Areas 1-3 fall within the preferred DLC location while the remaining areas, 4-8, fall into the allowable DLC location according to EPA requirements. Areas 4-8 require that manufacturers label the vehicle in the preferred location to notify parties of the alternate connector location.

Preferred Location(s)

Location #1:

This location represents a DLC positioned on the underside of the IP directly under the steering column (or approximately 150mm left or right of the steering column). Visualizing the underside of an IP divided into three equal parts from inside the passenger compartment, this represents the center section.

Location #2

This location represents a DLC positioned on the underside of the IP between the steering column and the driver's side passenger door. Visualizing the underside of an IP divided into three equal parts from inside the passenger compartment, this represents the left section.

Location #3

This location represents a DLC positioned on the underside of the IP between the steering column and the center console. Visualizing the underside of an IP divided into three equal parts from inside the passenger compartment, this represents the right section.

Allowable Location(s)

Location #4

This location represents a DLC positioned on the upper part of the IP between the steering column and the center console (but not on the center console, see location #6).

Location #5

This location represents a DLC positioned on the upper part of the IP between the steering column and the driver side, passenger door.

Location #6

This location represents a DLC positioned on the vertical section of the center console and left of the vehicle center line.

Location #7

This location represents a DLC positioned 300 mm right of the vehicle centerline either on the vertical section of the center console or on the passenger side of the vehicle.

Location #8

This location represents a DLC positioned on the horizontal section of the center console either left or right of the vehicle center line. This does not include the horizontal section of the center console that extends into the rear passenger area (see location #9).

Location #9

This location, not shown, represents any DLC positioned in an area other than those mentioned above (e.g., in the rear passenger area on the driver side armrest).
